Comprehension Passage

Rahul was a little boy who always wished for the things he did not have. So, one day he stole his baby brother's ball and went off with it to a nearby park.

Unfortunately, there was a very inquisitive cow chewing grass there and when she saw the strange round object, she opened her mouth and swallowed it. Meanwhile Rahu's baby brother was screaming his head off for his ball. When the truth came out, naughty Rahul got a terrible scolding from his father.

The next morning when he saw the cow, it was suffering from stomach ache and indigestion and felt heartily sorry that she had eaten the ball.

From that day onwards, both animals and children learned to be happy with the things they had- the cow with all the green grass around her and Rahul with his toys and picture books.
